

| | |
|---|--|
| David Bond | University of Technology Sydney |
|  | David Bond is a Senior Lecturer, and Director, Master of Business Analytics at the University of Technology Sydney. He has published in journals including Journal of Accounting and Public Policy, Accounting & Finance and Journal of Contemporary Accounting & Economics. David also serves on the editorial boards of Accounting & Finance and Accounting Education. He has an active interest in the role of emerging technology and social media in the learning environment. Through his work in this area, David has received a number of teaching awards, including an Australian Government Office for Learning & Teaching Citation. He has previously held the position of Academic Fellow at the International Financial Reporting Standards Foundation in London, as well as being a visiting academic at the London School of Economics. He is currently on the boards of both the Sport Management Association of Australia and New Zealand, Sydney Rugby Union and Women Sport Australia, and also represents AFAANZ as the Vice President At-Large on the IAAER. David is an active member of AFAANZ, and is currently serving on the AFAANZ Board as the IT/Social Media Director. During his time on the AFAANZ Board, he has been responsible for creating and implementing the Association’s digital strategy, overseeing the launch of the new website and conference app, as well as re-invigorating the social media channels. This has led to an increased level of awareness of the work of AFAANZ members, as well as an improved digital experience. He is also been involved in running the AFAANZ Education Technology Symposium, as well as working with CAANZ and CPA Australia to host the inaugural Indigenous Accounting Forum. By being re-elected to the Board, David would use this opportunity to continue developing these initiatives while promoting the work of the Association and its members |
| Bikram Chatterjee | University of Tasmania |
|  | Dr Bikram Chatterjee is Senior Lecturer in the Discipline of Accounting at the University of Tasmania. His main areas of interest are public sector reporting, private sector reporting and accounting education. He has published extensively in these areas including within Accounting, Auditing & Accountability Journal, Accounting & Finance and Accounting Education: An International Journal. Bikram has been a member of the AFAANZ Conference technical committee in the not-for-profit/public sector stream for multiple years and is enthusiastic about engaging with professional bodies, and industry. He was a member of the assessment panel of Waipa and Taupo business awards, New Zealand and Q&A panel of Frontiers Forum organised by CAANZ titled ‘Strategies and Challenges for expanding collaboration between business faculties and business in Australia.’ Bikram is passionate about promoting academic research to a wider stakeholder audience and engaging the profession and industry in areas that can provide significant community benefit. He believes it is time to engage in new initiatives wherein stakeholders can be engaged in academic research including teaching scholarship. Should he be elected he will champion such initiatives. |

| | |
|---|---|
| Lisa McManus | Queensland University of Technology |
|  | Professor Lisa McManus is the Head of School (Accountancy), at Queensland University of Technology (QUT). Prior to her current role at QUT, Lisa has held a variety of appointments as Head of School, Dean of Business School, Faculty Associate Dean of Research and Deputy Director of a successful research institute, across a number of small regional and large city-based Australian universities. Her current and past research interests are focused on the discipline areas of management accounting, accounting education, work-integrated-learning, public sector accounting and business ethics. For the last two years Lisa has served on the Australian Research Council’s College of Experts assessing Future Fellowships, Discovery and DECRA grant applications. “I have been very fortunate in my academic career to have been provided me with opportunities to learn and grow as a researcher and an educator. I regard providing a supportive environment for emerging and early career academics central to the continuation and strength of the academy. I see a role on the AFAANZ board as another opportunity to personally contribute to the ongoing work of AFAANZ in growing, supporting and developing our future accounting academics across all universities in Australia and New Zealand, whether large or small, city-based or regional.” |
| Michaela Rankin | Monash University |
|  | Professor Michaela Rankin is Deputy Dean (International) at Monash Business School. In this role she is responsible for the strategic international engagement of the School; and has recently led the School to successful reaccreditation by AACSB, EQUIS and AMBA. Joining Monash in 2007, Michaela is a highly regarded educator, with her passion and commitment to the student learning experience being formally recognised through numerous awards. Her research focuses on corporate governance, financial reporting, executive compensation and sustainability, and integrated reporting, with her work being published widely across a range of international journals. Michaela is a member of the editorial boards of Accounting, Auditing and Accountability Journal, and Meditari Accountancy Research. She contributes to the accounting community, most recently as a member of CPA Australia’s Environment, Society and Governance Centre of Excellence; and to AFAANZ as a past member of the AFAANZ Technical Committee as Chair of the governance stream from 2012-2015. Michaela would like to give back to a community that has played a significant part her career development through service on the AFAANZ Board. She is passionate about the support and development of early career academics and particularly women. Never before have we seen such a need to connect with and support our emerging academics; and if nominated to a position on the Board Michaela would like to particularly focus efforts on expanding the already successful women’s mentoring program to all interested early career academics, and to expand activities across the year. |

| | |
|---|--|
| Yaowen Shan | University of Technology Sydney |
|  | Yaowen Shan is a Professor in the Department of Accounting at the University of Technology Sydney. He is also the Undergraduate Honours coordinator in the department. His research examines the role of accounting and non-accounting information in capital markets, corporate governance, and designing executive remunerations. His work has been published at Review of Accounting Studies, Contemporary Accounting Research, Journal of Corporate Finance, Abacus, Accounting and Finance, Pacific-Basin Finance Journal, International Review of Financial Analysis, and Australian Journal of Management. He also serves as an Associate Editor of Australian Journal of Management. Yaowen’s research has drawn attention from standard setters such as AASB and IASB, and various financial media. He has won many national competitive grants including several ARC Discovery and CIFR research grants, and two best paper awards at leading international accounting conferences. Yaowen is an active member of the AFAANZ community. Since becoming an AFAANZ Board Member in 2019, Yaowen has co-chaired the 2020 and 2021 AFAANZ conferences. By being re-elected to the Board, Yaowen would use this opportunity to reinforce the commitment of AFAANZ to enhancing doctoral education throughout Australasia and supporting the development of early career researchers. He is also keen to facilitate and promote Australasia based research that contributes to key academic and regulatory debates in accounting and the broader business community. |
| Marvin Wee | Australian National University |
|  | Marvin Wee is an Associate Professor in the Research School of Accounting at the ANU College of Business and Economics. Marvin is a current member of the AFAANZ board and he is also a Deputy Editor-in-Chief at Accounting & Finance. Marvin is an active member of the AFAANZ community. He is a regular presenter and discussant at AFAANZ conferences, and was a member of the AFAANZ conference technical committee between 2015 and 2017. He has also been the Chair of the Finance Special Interest Group since 2016. Since becoming an AFAANZ Board Member in 2017, Marvin co-chaired the AFAANZ conference technical committee in 2018 and 2019, and co-directed the 2020 Doctoral Symposium. Marvin will also co-direct the forthcoming 2021 Doctoral Symposium. Marvin’s research interests are in Capital Markets, Corporate Disclosures, Analyst and Management Forecasts, and Market Microstructure. Marvin has received a number of AFAANZ research grants and these have helped to provide the track record that enabled him to be competitive in obtaining grants from funding bodies including the Australian Research Council, the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Scotland and the KPMG Foundation/International Association for Accounting Education and Research. Marvin has benefitted immensely from being part of the AFAANZ community and welcomes the opportunity to continue serving on the board. |