About the opportunity

The University of Sydney is Australia’s premier university with an outstanding global reputation for academic and research excellence, and employs over 7,500 permanent staff supporting over 70,000 students. The University of Sydney Business School is one of the Asia Pacific region’s premier centres for engaged and innovative business education and research. With a highly international outlook, we have over 523 FTE (full-time equivalent) staff and more than 14,300 students (10,416 EFTSL) from diverse backgrounds enrolled in a comprehensive suite of programs including the high-profile MBA.

Building on our strong alliances with industry, government and the not-for-profit sector, the Business School is pursuing an ambitious strategic direction as a thought-leader in the development of ethical, responsible and sustainable responses to emerging global business challenges. We are housed in a state-of-the-art learning environment which, in the highly competitive global market for business education, enhances our ability to attract the best and brightest students, staff and researchers from around the world.

The Discipline of Finance is highly regarded and ranked consistently in the top 20 of the QS World Rankings. We have a very active research agenda covering major topic areas of finance. The discipline teaches course work programs to both undergraduates and postgraduates with two undergraduate majors (finance and banking) and one broad postgraduate specialisation in finance. There is a vibrant undergraduate honours program and PhD program.

We are looking for a strong early-to-mid-career researcher with genuine ambition for high-quality research, excellence in teaching, a commitment to service and a desire for involvement in team-based initiatives. The Discipline is seeking to appoint a Senior Lecturer who exhibits:

- a demonstrated ability to publish in high-quality journals
- a desire to contribute to an ambitious research culture in a spirit of positivity, collaboration and cooperation
- an interest in strong and lasting industry collaborations, and engaged research using innovative, inter-disciplinary research approaches
- a demonstrated ability to teach a wide range of Finance units, at undergraduate and postgraduate levels, to culturally diverse student cohorts
- ability to communicate technical concepts effectively in English
- a passion for curriculum development and delivery design
- a record of good governance and service
- an alignment to the University’s values of courage and creativity; openness and engagement; inclusion and diversity; and respect and integrity
- a demonstrated ability to work successfully in a team environment.
